The argument goes that each different religion is climbing a different side and cannot see the others, but once we reach the top all will become clear and we will see that we were all headed for the same place in the end. Pantheism, found in forms of Hinduism for instance, claims that everything is part of the impersonal divine. God did not have to give us any way of salvation at all, and He is totally just to give us only one way - His way.

That is Hinduism, not Christianity. Therefore such a world exists, in contrast to Christianity. One man touched the tail and described the elephant as rope. Instead he made his claims in ways that were deeply rooted in the Hebrew Scriptures and therefore unmistakable to his Jewish listeners.

Now, of course, nobody commits an infinite number of sins in the earthly life. We are in him who is true - even in his Son Jesus Christ.
